Jahangir had questions about multi-tenant housing. Jahangir recognized that multi-tenant housing is limited because of safety precautions and that other provinces do not have these precautions. Jahangir recognized the reason why people do this and wanted to know more information about the multi-tenant housing consultation. Jahangir recognized that it is not healthy for many people to live in a small space and wants to make sure that the SCSU can help protect students because student health is important.

Jahangir asked whether APUS has a part-time Board of Directors.

Srithas stated that the position is not filled; however, part-time students who are interested in being on the Board can run during the upcoming Fall Election. Srithas will touch base on the multi-tenant housing situation, which is still in the preliminary stage.

Vigneswaramoorthy requested a point of information; specifically, an explanation of multi-tenant housing.

Srithas stated that multi-tenant housing is currently illegal in the city. Srithas defined multi-tenant housing as various groups of people living in an apartment or house, which has divisions to designate the living area of each person. The Pilot Project recognizes that people take part in multi-tenant housing and it is difficult for tenants to complain since this is an illegal activity. Srithas explained that the goal of the Pilot Project is to determine if and how multi-tenant housing could be done in a safe way, which included cleanliness and adequate division. The idea behind legalizing multi-tenant housing in a few places in the city and observing how it works out is, should everything go well, for these standards to be implemented across the city.

Vigneswaramoorthy asked for specifics on how to promote the multi-faith spaces in classrooms.

Srithas stated that during an Upper Administration Meeting, there was a request to transforms classrooms that into multi-faith spaces when the classrooms are not in use. Currently, Srithas is trying to get a hold of Curtis Cole, the Registrar Administrator who has a list of classrooms that are not in use at certain times of the day or week. Srithas hopes that this will be implemented in September.

Sithamparanathan asked for an explanation of the Research Symposium.

Arayata explained that IRDS is the acronym for the Interdisciplinary Research Development Symposium, which is now known as the Undergraduate Research Symposium. Arayata stated that a lot of students did not know what IRDS meant, this title was intimidating and inaccessible for something that was meant to target UTSC students. In addition, the IRDS was not formalized. Arayata stated that this research symposium is a conference celebrating undergraduate student research in any discipline. The Undergraduate Research Symposium is going to a formalized, 1 day conference where students will present their research.

Sithamparanathan asked whether this research symposium is just for UTSC students.

Thursday August 21st, 2017 | 6:00 PM | SL-232, UTSC Student Centre

Arayata answered in affirmation. Arayata stated that there is a lot of rebranding and advertising under the new name, Undergraduate Research Symposium. In previous years, the IRDS was independently run by the SCSU but this year, she had discussions with DSAs and she is getting professors from their Department on board to review the research submissions and listening to their suggestions to legitimize the process.

Srithamas asked when applications go out, whether Arayata would advertise the release of applications (if that is how it works) and whether the deadline has passed already.

Arayata stated that the deadline for application submission has not passed yet and call outs will occur in September. Arayata stated that she had discussions with the Dean and is currently getting volunteers to help with logistics.

Dang asked whether the Healthy Campus Advocacy Committee had any conversations regarding sleep and sleep counselling.

Srithamas stated that the Healthy Campus UTSC website launched today. Srithamas noted that there are different aspects but does not believe there is one on sleep. Srithamas stated that there is an aspect of the website where you can contact them to give suggestions and they will advise you.

Stojanovski asked about the other topics covered in the Healthy Campus Advocacy Committee meeting; specifically, a succinct list of topics that were covered in that meeting.

Srithamas stated the following initiatives off the top of her head: the renovations to the Valley Walk to increase accessibility, the healthy food options on campus and a list of courses that focus on healthy living. Srithamas stated she would find out more information and forward the list to the Directors.

Stojanovski asked whether the Healthy Campus Advocacy Committee approached the topic of Health by splitting it into the categories of physical health, mental health and spiritual health.

Srithamas answered in affirmation. Srithamas found and read the list of collaborations and initiatives from the Healthy Campus website.

Be it resolved that the Executive Report be accepted as presented.

Sithamparanathan would also like work on implementing a Co-op Program for Human Biology Majors; however, due to complications the focus is on the Specialist program. Sithamparanathan noted that there are already Co-Op programs for Psychology and Neuroscience but they are all for Specialists, which a lot of first-year students complain about; yet, there is no Co-op Program for Human Biology Specialists.

Weaver stated that he would email the Executives but had no pertinent updates.

Vigneswaramoorthy stated that she was still following up on the Indigenous Literature course issue she mentioned last month.
