This is an issue that affects all students.

Anti-Oppression Trainings
Throughout the course of the year, VP Equity conducted several anti-oppression trainings for students and staff. Many of these trainings were held monthly during Club’s Training, while others were hosted for the Orientation team, SCSU Free Textbook Network, Racialized Student Collective, and Food Centre coordinators and volunteers, as well as upon request from student organizations and DSA’s. Trainings were typically 2 hours in length and asked participants to discuss terms like power and privilege as it relates to race, gender, and sexuality.

Gender Inclusive Washrooms Campaign
At the start of the year, VP Equity met with the SC:OUT Executive to discuss plans for a Gender Inclusive Washroom Campaign that would engage students and administration in a more nuanced conversation about the need to have gender inclusive washrooms added to the already existing washrooms on campus. In previous years, executives and general members of the SCSU have stressed the need to have gender inclusive washrooms on campus, hence its addition to the mockup for the Highland Halls Building.

On September 27th, Vice President Equity organized an outreach day dedicated to talking to students about the importance of having gender inclusive washrooms on campus. Signatures from students who support the implementation of gender inclusive washrooms were also collected on the day. All SCSU executives including members from SC:OUT executives participated in outreach which lasted from 10 a.m. to the late afternoon.

On September 29th, SC:OUT hosted the first session in their discussion series “Bi-Talks.” The conversation was hosted in partnership with SCSU to talk about gender inclusive washrooms. The discussion centered around safety for trans and gender non-conforming individuals, why gender inclusive washrooms are a necessary part of campus life, and students’ general feeling towards them.

On January 17th, VP Equity and the President met with Chief Administrative Officer Andrew Arifuzzaman and Sexual Gender and Diversity Officer (SGDO) Allison Burgess to discuss gender neutral washrooms and mapping. Currently, there is a website that features a map of the existing washrooms on campus. The university is also developing an app that will make it easier for students to know where washrooms are located. Part of the discussion around mapping was a plan to combine the information that both parties have on this one centralized app.

Currently, VP Equity is investigating what an implementation of a gender inclusive washroom in the Student Centre could look like. There will be a formalized report with recommendations and costs that will be presented at the final board meeting in March.

Sexual Violence and Prevention Support

VP Equity sits on both the Sexual Violence and Prevention Centre Advisory Board at UTSC as well as on the Sexual Violence Climate Survey Advisory with the Vice-Provost Students downtown.

The first Advisory Board meeting, held on June 5th, was primarily used to discuss response tactics when survivors contact the Centre for help and appropriate channels of communication between working group members. Since that time, ways to improve communication have continued to be discussed as well as ways to better serve students and remain survivor-centric in our approach.

Earlier on in the year, VP AUA and VP Equity met with Colleen from the Sexual Violence Centre. Conversations surrounded the support systems and functionality of the space for our students on campus. Conversations then turned towards what support is provided towards academic appeals, petitions, and extensions. This falls within the goals of both executives to ensure that our students are in an environment that is not only conductive in their learning experience, but also one that conducts its practices in an equitable and accessible manner.

Earlier this year, VP Equity and VP Academics facilitated “Your Campus, Your Space.” The event was done in collaboration with Association of Part-Time Undergraduate Students (APUS), Students of Sociology at UTSC(SOS), the Women and Trans’ Centre, and Students of English Literature and Film (SELF). The event was a follow-up one to an earlier session in September 2016 regarding the University of Toronto’s Sexual Violence and Prevention Policy. It has been a year since the policy has been implemented, so students wanted to come together to think about the ways that the policy can be improved to better suit the needs of students.

Since that time, a training module around sexual violence and prevention has been shared to students through portal. VP Equity, VP Academics, and the President were part of the team that offered recommendations to both the Sexual Violence and Prevention staff and boards about improvements that can be made.

Black History Month

In February, we have hosted a series of events on the multiplicities of the black experience. This year's programming was entitled "It Starts With Us." Our events for the month include(d), Queer Black Experience: A Discussion on Anti-Blackness in Queer Communities, Keynote Address with Emmanuel Jal, "Hallmark of Tolerance" Film Screening, Annual Showcase "Blackout," Politics of Beauty Panel Discussion, Enough: A Black Mental Health Event, Blackness in Faith: A Discussion on Religiosity and Spirituality in 2018.

Black students from around campus, including student organizations like Future Black Physicians and Imani, came together with the SCSU to host these events. Naming Black History Month “It Starts With Us” was one of the ways that we wanted to center community as well as explore critical conversations about the multiplicities of the black identity.
Monologues
The Monologues continues to be an annual celebration of self-identified women through performances that includes visual display, music, dance, and spoken word poetry. Being a self-identified woman, queer, and/or trans-identified person is WERK, hence the theme of our show. Our bodies, actions, minds, and other facets of our identities are constantly being policed by societal expectations, the media, self-doubt, and so much more. It is for this reason, that community and self-care is so crucial. Owning your power starts by acknowledging that it exists in the first place. This year, the VP Equity and executives at the Women’s and Trans Centre were intentional about creating a platform for femmes, trans folks (gender-queer/fluid, gender non-binary, and trans men included), and self-identified women to be who they are and do so unapologetically.

On November 9th and 24th, auditions for the 2018 Monologues were held. A total of 18 performers were selected to participate in the show.

On December 1st, the SCSU and the Women’s and Trans Centre came together to host the annual Monologues Photoshoot. There was a makeup artist, live calligraphy, button making, and colouring available. The photos from the shoot were then used as promotional material for the Monologues show and at the actual event.

SCSU in collaboration with the Women’s and Trans Centre also hosted a 2-hour long workshop for the performers of the 2018 Monologues. The goal of the workshop was to help performers with their stage presence and finalize their pieces. Sharine Taylor facilitated this session.

The Monologues was officially held on January 25th at 5PM in Rex’s Den. Over 70 people attended.

"Maya," the very first Photo Journal profiling self-identified women at UTSC was introduced in the latter part of 2017. There is no single way to adequately define who a woman is or who they have the power to be. Women are creators, organizers, friends, partners, and more. This journal, however, is not so much interested in these titles, but rather, the content of one’s character. As creators of the first Photo Journal series profiling self-identified women at UTSC, we are interested in celebrating women in their extraordinary ordinariness. This journal will showcase the women of our campus who before titles and accolades, are kind, thoughtful, and invested in the well-being of others.

Women’s Writing Circle
Women’s Writing Circle was hosted by the Women’s and Trans Centre and the Scarborough Campus Students’ Union this year. The first Women’s Writing Circle of the Winter semester took place on January 11th and was facilitated by VP Equity; however, the first sessions of the year took place in Fall 2017. The Women’s Writing Circle is a safer space for self-identified women to write and engage in acts of self-care with others. There are two sessions a month that include a free lunch. Participants are encouraged to share what they have written, but there is never any pressure to. Our last Writing Circle will take place in March.

Health and Wellness: Wellness for Racialized Students

In the earlier part of June, Vice President Equity met with staff at the Health and Wellness Centre to talk about the possibility of hosting group therapy sessions for racialized students on campus. The intention of the group is to create space for students to share how their experiences as racialized students impact their mental health and well-being. Moving forward, the next steps will be to conduct a focus group in the latter part of the summer to get an idea of how students want this space to function.

Since that time, VP Equity and VP Academics began to work closely with staff from the Health and Wellness Centre to host two 2-hour long focus groups with racialized students from around campus about what type of wellness supports they would like to see. In the latter part of 2017, the team came together to look through the data, think about the ways to structure the group, and talk about next steps. The group officially began in February.

Organizers from SCSU, CFS, CUPE, Racialized Students Collective, Food Equity Campaign, Food Centre, and Women and Trans Centre spoke at this event. They highlighted transit issues, mental health of students, food equity issues, labour rights, divestment, and spoke about the barriers in access to education for indigenous and black students on campus, divestment. They spoke about the skyrocketing tuition fees, and urged the student population to vote in the upcoming provincial elections where many student concerns will be heard and implemented. Later at night, we hosted a Resistance as Art paint night as a destressor and social for students. Going forward, the Fairness of Students and Fight the Fees Campaign will be combined with the CFS Vote now campaign to educate students on Voting for the upcoming provincial elections in June 2018.

BDS/Israeli Apartheid Week 2018

As per a motion that was previously passed by UTSC students at an SCSU AGM in 2015 to support Boycott Divestment Sanctions (BDS) which is a peaceful movement to call our institutions to divest from illegal investments and settlements the university has made that directly profit and aid the occupation of Palestine, i.e. summer abroad program in Israel and partnership with HP (Hewlett-Packard) that directly plays a key role in Israel’s oppression of Palestinians. HP provides technology, equipment, and services to the Israeli military, including for the checkpoints and ID card system that underpin Israel’s apartheid policies and its movement restrictions for Palestinians. This year in March, Toronto Students for Justice in Palestine and the SCSU will be partnering to implement this motion and hosting an Israeli Apartheid Week to raise awareness about Palestine and the BDS movement and to urge our university administration to take action.
